

Chris (Captain Cortex)

A samoyed who occasionally dresses in spandex and stops crimes with his wide array of psychic powers. He works at Wuff Coast University in the neurology department, but is on the station when not at work or fighting supervillains most of the time.

Appearance

A fluffy samoyed with an exposed brain faintly glowing with psychic energy. When in his “superhero” outfit, he wears a purple-and-blue bodysuit, and when in “civilian” clothes is usually dressed business-casual (or in a speedo because he just burst out of a cake, long story). He once was converted into a cyberdog by the evil Xakire, and had his limbs and jaw replaced with augments, but this was reversed immediately after Halloween ended (though an alternate universe counterpart who still is a cyberdog is somewhere on station).

Personality

Cheerful and friendly, Chris is always up for cuddling with others (though not sexually most of the time.) He loves brainrubs and helping people out, though he has a low tolerance for illegal shenanigans. Oddly enough, when not fighting supervillains he has a good off-duty relationship with a lot of them, including Xakire.
